Annual Pumpkin Meet
Won by Freshmen ClassEight First and Nine Second Places Disclose Wealth of Material in Freshman Class.

The annual Pumpkin Meet, held on Saturday, October 14, produced quite a stir among the leaders of University of Maine track. And well it might, because the Freshmen won by the decisive score of 79½ to 42½. Good material is always expected from a freshman class, but nineteen twenty-six outdid itself in bringing out real winners. If these men keep up the good work, they should bring many trophies home to rest before they graduate. To prove that they were real point-getters, the twenty-six men annexed eight first places and nine seconds out of the thirteen events, and took only five thirds.

The individual stars are several. First came Jackson, freshman, who was high point man of the meet. He won both the hammer throw and sixteen pound shot-put with sensational heaves of 79.9 feet in the former and 41.05 feet in the latter, and finished second in the hundred yard dash, giving him a total of 13 points. Cahill, also a freshman, won both the quarter-mile and the two-twenty. His race in the quarter was a pretty sight. Running with the free, effortless style which made him conspicuous over the rest of the field, he tagged Murray for a third of the race, and then romped away from the field, finishing with a twenty yard lead. Lawry, sophomore, was high man for his class with nine points; a win in the hundred, a second

Maine Debating Society
Holds an Informal Social

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 11 the University of Maine Debating Society held an informal social at the Phi Eta Kappa House. The purpose of the gathering was to arouse interest throughout the University in the Debating Society, especially among the entering class.

After those interested had assembled, the President, Howard E. Wilson, opened the meeting by carefully reviewing what the Society had done in the past and briefly explaining what the purpose of the meeting was. All were very cordially welcomed. Prof. Bailey, head of the Public Speaking Department, was then called upon.

He outlined the secrets of Bates' debating strength which he attributed to undivided support from the undergraduate body and faculty. The duty of the Debating Society here is to arouse enthusiasm among the collegiate body at Maine.

H. L. Richardson, the Corresponding secretary, was the next speaker. In a general way he stated the program for the present year. While nothing yet has been accomplished in the way of a definite schedule, plans have been projected to form a League among the various colleges in New England who would consider such a project. Already several western colleges have made offers.

Prof. Toelle was then introduced. He emphasized the importance of a fighting spirit among the members of the Society. He was followed by E. M. Curran, Publicity Agent who spoke on the necessity of active publicity work on the campus.

Pres. Little was the last speaker. He discussed the importance of debating among the intellectual activities of the college and the great amount of good to be obtained from debating work. Plans are in formation to broaden debating activities by having interclass debates.

Following the speeches, cookies and tobacco were passed around.

Judging by the large attendance the prospects for debating are brighter than ever before despite the fact that two from last year's team have been lost.

The Cross Country Team
Ready for State Meet

With the state meet only a few weeks away interest is centering on cross country. Bates College has won the last two inter-state meets and some hard work must be done to bring the championship back to Maine. With a good nucleus for a team, prospects look fairly bright for an evenly balanced team.

Coach Flack has his squad of sixty-five men over the course every night

Maine Grid Warriors
Defeat Norwich TeamNorwich Finds Maine Line a Stonewall.
Thrilling End Runs and Passes Prove Successful.

With the line holding like a stonewall, Maine defeated the much talked of Norwich eleven, 12-0. From the time that Small threw a pass to McKechnie at the beginning of the game, until the end, the Maine rooters were thrilled by the end runs of Thomas and by an abundance of forward passes by both sides. The aerial route was tried again and again in the last quarter proving to be the greatest ground gainer for the remaining minutes of play. Winer, as fullback, played a fine game as did Capt. Lunge and Fraser in the line. Taylor's scoring a touchdown after blocking a punt from Walsh's boot showed fast work on the part of the former. For Norwich, Bradley at quarter and the 40 yd. run by Marsden featured. The rough play on the part of the Norwich cannot be overlooked.

A general summary follows:

O'Hara kicked off to Merritt on the 25 yd. line. A forward, Small to McKechnie for 8 yds. was successful. Failing to gain Small kicked to Bradley who was downed in his tracks by Thomas on 50 yd. line. A forward, Walsh to Rosenthal gave Norwich ten yards. Norwich failed to kick a drop. Maine's ball on 20 yard line. Merritt made 5 yards thru right guard but Maine was forced to kick to Norwich on 38 yard line. Marsden next broke through the Maine line for a 40 yard run but was overtaken and downed by Thomas. Norwich was penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness. They failed to kick a drop and it was Maine's ball again on the 20 yard line. Here the quarter ended. Maine next started down the field but lost the ball on a fumble on the 40 yard line. Norwich recovered the ball but failed to

Small Crowd Attends Rally
For Norwich Game

A short snappy rally was held for the Norwich game on Friday night, Oct. 13. A very small crowd was in attendance.

Coach Brice gave some of the inside information on the Dartmouth game. He said that while Dartmouth had over one hundred men on the field when the game began, the spirit of the Maine team was, "let 'em come, they can only play eleven men at a time." And with that kind of spirit the Maine team played better ball for the first quarter than did Dartmouth and they played even for the first half. Coach Brice again emphasized the fact that there is not a quitter on the squad, and that from now on it is just a question of fight to the finish. "On paper Norwich has the best team but if the students will give them the old fight, they have the stuff to come thru and trim Norwich," was the way he finished his speech.

The next speaker was "Psycho" Halverson, the latest addition to the Athletic Board. He warmed up with a few jolly stories and then got down to the pith of his talk. He said that Maine was entering on a new era in which they would enter into more even match with the larger institutions, and in which they would look upon the state games as something that they could win. He said that some of the reason why we were going to do this was that we had the best president in the New England States, two of the best coaches in this section, a sympathetic Athletic Board, and of the colleges that he had taught in Wisconsin, Iowa and Clark, we had the better spirit.

The sentiment of the crowd was to go out and round up the rest of the students, but under the existing conditions this was thought to be impractical. They are, however, given permission to do this next week.

Freshman Smoker Given
By Phi Gamma Delta

A fine smoker was given by the Phi Gamma Delta Freshmen on Tuesday, Oct. 10. This was the second smoker of the year. About thirty-five men assembled from all parts of the campus. Nearly all the fraternities were represented, two men from each house. When the guests arrived they were cordially received by the house freshmen, received their pipes, registered their names in the guest book and gave themselves over to various amusements, some choosing simply to smoke and wander about the house, others playing cards, some playing the piano and other instruments. Still others gathered around the tables and discussed razors and other matters of vital interest to freshmen. During this time apples and cider went the rounds, everyone partaking freely.

Later, while preparations for a picture were being made, the group repaired to the dining room where refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Souvenir cigars and cigarettes were presented to the guests at this time. After all had partaken of the feast they entered the parlor where a picture was taken. After the picture, they gathered around the fireplace and talked until they adjourned to their homes.

Everyone present had a fine time and all look forward to another smoker as good as the one given by the Phi Gamma Delta.

Sophs Defeat Frosh 3-2
In Class Baseball Game

The Sophomores defeated the Freshman team 3-2 in a very interesting baseball game last week. This is the first game they have played. Pattengal and Thompson starred for the Freshmen and both look like good varsity material. Everett and Wilson featured for the Sophomores.

No one crossed the plate in the first inning, but in the second Savage and Everett got singles and were advanced by sacrifices, both reaching home, scoring for the Sophomores.

In the fifth and sixth, the Freshmen had things their way. Thompson hit a single, Olsen advanced him with another working hard for the coming races. Among the old men are Raymond, McKeeman, Webb, Kneeland, Wilson, Murray, Ames, Noyes and Smith. Many of the freshmen are showing up well and should be strong contenders for the team. Hillman, Tait, and Sylvester stand out prominently among those in the entering class. A strong freshman squad will have to be developed as next year the freshman rule goes into effect and only upper classmen will be allowed to compete in varsity contests.

"Mac" McKeeman is a senior this year and Captain of the squad. He made his letter last year in the state meet, running consistently thruout the year and is well deserving of the honor. With his leadership and the cooperation of every man a good team should be turned out to compete in the State Meet at Lewiston November 3.

The Panhellenic Party
Is Very Unique Affair

The Panhellenic association gave its annual party in the form of a "Movie Ball" Friday, October 13. The plan has been to give a party every year to which every girl in college is invited and this affords a very good way of getting acquainted.

The gym was to represent Hollywood where the many prominent actors and actresses assemble. The date of this affair was evidently very well chosen as many of the most noted stars were able to attend. Besides these stars, many of the town people also gathered around as it was a great opportunity to meet and shake hands with some of America's best movie players.

During the evening there was a pantomime given of several different scenes of "The Sheik." After this prizes were awarded for the best and also for the most ridiculous costumes. The prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Elizabeth Peabody who represented Little Lord Fauntleroy and Cora Claire who represented Mary Pickford. Those for the most ridiculous costumes were awarded to Daphne Winslow and Frances Brewer.

Refreshments of ice cream in cones, cookies and apples were served. Dancing continued throughout the evening.

The chaperones for the evening were Mrs. Estabrooke and Mrs. Munson.

Large Enrollment in Summer School at Maine

The twenty-second session of the summer term of the University of Maine closed Friday, August 4. The total registration was 300, which is considerably in excess of any previous registration. Fifty-six of the students held collegiate degrees and a large majority of the remainder were undergraduate students from 33 different colleges and universities.

Three departments which were introduced this year—biology, commercial branches and physical training,—enrolled a fair number of students. The work in commercial branches was conducted by Mr. Rufus Stickney of the Arlington, Mass. High School. In connection with the biology courses an elaborate program of subjects relating to public health was featured. Lectures were given by members of the department and by such specialists as Dr. A. G. Young, Dr. C. F. Kendall, Dr. Tyson, Dr. Welsh, Dr. Coombs, Surgeon Draper and Miss Soule of the State Health department.

Every morning at ten o'clock a fifteen minute assembly was held in the chapel where a brief religious service was followed by an address from a member of the faculty or a selection of instrumental

New Council Arranged
By Dormitory Men

Th men living in Hannibal Hamlin Hall and Oak Hall have recently reorganized the Commons Council and revised its constitution. The name of the organization has been changed to Dormitory Council upon the suggestion of Dr. Little.

Wednesday evening, Oct. 11, an election of officers for the present year was held. The following officers were elected: President, Oscar Judkins '23; Vice-President, Ersley Goldsmith '23; Secretary and Treasurer, Carl Beal '24.

For a long time the men have felt that some sort of a strong organization was necessary in order that the Dormitory might be fairly represented in Campus activities. Plans are now under way to have a well furnished recreation room and to have a matron for the two halls.

Cheering

The importance of good team support in athletic contests cannot be over-emphasized, for it is a well known fact that the success of any team depends largely upon the amount of backing it receives. Time, and time again, you have heard football coaches deliver long orations to that effect. All the old-timers can produce stories of teams that were able to win victory against great odds because they knew that everyone was behind them and praying for them to succeed. College history is full of such accounts and we believe that everyone is now of the opinion that display of spirit is a prerequisite for athletic success.

Granting that football teams in general need the whole-hearted support of their student bodies; why should we consider our representatives an exception to the rule? Our cheering is not what it should be. Something is wrong; either the attitude of the students is very poor or our system of cheering needs revising. The cheers are very ill-timed and are sadly lacking in volume. This has been very evident at the home games so far this season. At the beginning of the game that kick and punch, so necessary in starting things with a bang, has been missing. While at the critical points of the game we seem to have failed to take advantage of the opportunities to create those dramatic situations when you may look for things to happen. Yes, let's admit it; our cheering organization this year has been a failure. Are we content to let it continue so?

Just because we have been a failure, so far, we must not think that we cannot succeed. Our individual duty is to go out there on that field with the determination that each one shall do his level best to make the cheers a success. Then and only then will anyone be in a position to criticize the cheer-leaders and their work. Let's all help in giving our present system a fair trial.

Bates Is Coming

It is an old saying that a "Good beginning is half the battle." The state series is beginning next week: What do you say if we start in by winning the first game. It will not be an easy game, for Bates never did have the reputation of producing quitters but we have the goods and we can win if we really want to. We have a football team that will go out there with a lot of that fighting spirit that sometimes accomplishes things that are apparently impossible. All that is necessary for a big victory is that we go out to the field with the determination that we are going to win and that we are all going to be back of that team with all our might all the time. Now is the time to begin to win the state series.

Determination in the A. M. is satisfaction in the P. M.

Posters on the Campus

The Campus has recently been invaded once more by the demon poster artist. We have been cautioned about this general bedecking of the landscape with posters in the past, and apparently everyone has tried to guard against this poor practice. We have been comparatively free from such evils until a few days ago when nearby trees blossomed forth in the unaccustomed splendor of adornment in the form of brightly colored placards. The appearance of our Campus is something in which we should, naturally, take pride. All true Maine men will lend their best efforts to preserving the neatness of all college premises. Watch out for this sort of thing in the future, everybody.

Make Your Plans for Bowdoin

Our really important game of the year is the one with Bowdoin November 4. That will be a day when we must have our host of royal rooters, whatever the cost. Every man who can possibly get away should plan now to make the trip. We are going to have a special train with special rates. Let's all go down and help Maine win her big game. It will be worth seeing.

"Cuddy" Murphy Will Be Maine's All Year Coach

The Athletic Association has been fortunate to secure the services of "Cuddy" Murphy as an all year coach for the University teams. He is to take charge of the weight men just as soon as football is over. In the spring he will assist with the varsity baseball team.

As assistant coach of this fall's football team, "Cuddy" has thoroughly demonstrated his ability to handle men. He has made good. His pleasing personality and aggressiveness make him an ideal coach, the kind that athletes like to follow. "Cuddy" doesn't have to drive his men to get results. They are anxious to do what he says, because they know what he has done athletically. "Cuddy" has been through the athletic mill and has come out with national honors. He knows what it is to be a college athlete and he is giving the University men the benefit of his experience.

The athletes in the University have faith in his teachings. The student body to the man is behind him. The athletes have gone thru for him this fall in football and they stand ready to continue this winter in track and in baseball when spring comes.

Delegates from all Maine Colleges Hold Meeting

Other organizations, as well as the football team, recognize the value of pre-season training. Four members of the Maine Christian Association Cabinet and Mr. Clark the secretary, met in conference with representatives from the three other colleges of Maine at the State Y. M. C. A. camps in Winthrop Center on the week-end preceding the dates of registration. Conferences were held with the delegates from the other colleges and addresses were given by men trained in college christian work. Dave Porter who is at the head of international student Y. M. C. A. work and just recently returned from China was a welcome speaker and adviser. Mr. Porter was born in Old Town, graduated from Bowdoin college with both athletic and scholastic honors and was also a Rhodes scholar. It was suggested among members of the Cabinet that Dave be invited to spend a few days at the U. of M. next spring. They felt sure that he would make friends with all.

The chief difference between any two men is usually a woman.

The Town of Orono A Community Study

The best reason for there being a settlement at this location is that there is a great amount of water power which is easily controlled. First the saw mills, and later the pulp and paper mills have given Orono its leading industries. The first mill was erected on the south side of the Stillwater on the spot where the cant-dog factory now stands. But Orono did not gain much headway industrially until after 1820 although there was some cutting, hauling, and sawing of logs and shingles. In 1820 two large mills were erected on the Bennock and Babcock dams. They were successful and were a factor in causing the growth in population, from 300 in 1806 to 1497 in 1830.

It was during the decade, 1830-1840, that the so-called land scandal occurred. The population rose to 6000 in 1836, a growth of approximately 4500 in six years. In 1836 there were twenty-five retail shops in the town. The cause of this great change in Orono was the sudden opening of the Penobscot valley forests. It was believed that all of the trees could be manufactured into lumber at Orono. The Bangor Lower Stillwater Mill Company was formed in 1835. They purchased Eayers Island and a great deal of land on both sides of Main Street. They reserved the best portions of it for themselves and sold the rest at public auction on Broadway, New York City. Lots fifty by one hundred feet sold for prices ranging from $500 to $1000.

The bubble broke in 1836 and the population began to shrink. Business failures were common. Times were hard and money was scarce. Lumbering was carried on in a small way, but losses instead of profits were the result. During the boom many mills had been built and these now stood idle.

But better times in business were gradually ushered in. In 1850 a large saw mill was built at the Basin, extending from Eayers Island to the mainland. It was owned and controlled by James Walker. It was a propellant force in the town's prosperity until 1909, when it was destroyed by fire. In 1868 industrial possibilities in Orono were enhanced by the extension of the European and North American Railroad, now the Maine Central. Three saw mills burned in the seventies, but their place was taken by others. In 1890 a saw mill was built on Eayers Island in the Basin. It was soon converted into a pulp and paper mill and is now controlled by the Orono Pulp and Paper Company. In 1893 a paper mill was built on the extreme southern point of Marsh Island by the International Paper Company.

Previous to the establishment of the present Orono branch of the Old Town Trust Co. the following institutions were located here:

"1. The Stillwater Canal Bank, incorporated March 21, 1835 with a capital of $50,000. The bank was located in a small brick building on the site of what is now the Chapman Billiard and Pool Rooms. The first officers were President Edward Kimball, Cashier E. P. Butler. In 1841 Nathaniel Treat was President.

"2. The Bank of Old Town was incorporated April 1, 1836 with capital stock of $50,000. Jefferson Sinclair was President and C. S. Lane Cashier.

"3. The Orono Bank, incorporated February 14, 1852, also with a capital of $50,000, was organized in Israel Washburn's law office over what is now the Orono Waiting Room (which was then the Post Office). On Sept. 6, 1853 at a meeting held in these rooms Nathan H. Allen was elected President and Elvaton P. Butler, Cashier. The following October it was voted to move into the brick building now occupied by a branch of the Old Town Trust Co. The charter of this, the last State Bank, was surrendered March 1, 1864.

"4. The Orono National Bank #1134 was organized March 27, 1865 and this bank opened for business in the present bank building on September 9 of that year with Benjamin P. Gilman, President and E. P. Butler, Cashier.

"There is a $3 bill of the Stillwater Canal Bank dated March 27, 1840 in the possession of the Bangor Historical Society; also a $5 bill of the Bank of Old Town dated August 1, 1836."

—E. F. Hitchings.

5. In 1866 the Orono Savings Bank was incorporated. The Maine Register for 1895-6 states that the Orono Savings Bank was then closing its business. At that time Samuel Libbey was President and Albert White was Treasurer.

The Orono Branch of the Old Town Trust Co. was established May 4, 1914. For the material used in preparing this paper I wish to express my indebtedness to the following sources:

The Y. W. C. A. Drive Successful This Year

The Y. W. C. A. Drive, which took place last week, was much more successful than the drive of last year, due perhaps, to the good team work of the Committees.

The goal for which all the houses tried was 100%, the results are as follows: Maples 100%, North Hall 87.5%, Balentine 75%, Mt. Vernon 66.7%.

In Balentine the drive was divided into four parts, each floor striving to be 100%. Second floor made this percent, third floor following close behind.

With this number of members the Y. W. plans to do some fine work in the future and it's now put up to the girls who have made the pledges to do their part.

A "Welcome Back Party" Given at Sigma Nu House

An informal "Welcome Back Party" was given at the Sigma Nu House Friday night. It was the first party of this year and a large crowd enjoyed the dance.

Music was furnished by Reiche's Orchestra. The chaperones for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Kidney and Mr. and Mrs. King.

Punch was served throughout the evening and at intermission, the refreshments consisted of ice cream and cake.

Maine Christian Assoc. Has Membership Drive

Last week was Membership week for the M. C. A. In previous years there has been no definite membership to the organization outside of the cabinet. This year all men students who are interested in promoting the work of the organization along its various lines of Deputation, Bible study, New student work, Boys' work etc., are offered the opportunity of becoming members by merely signing a card stating the purpose of the organization and the branch or branches of work in which the individual is interested. There is no membership fee this year.

Maine Forestry Club Holds Business Meeting

The University of Maine Forestry Club held its first business meeting of the year Friday noon, October 13. Plans for the coming year were discussed and the following officers were elected: President, Wilbur Christopherson; Vice-president, William Foss; Secretary-treasurer, Julian Merrill; Executive committee, Ralph Hutchinson, Arthur Parmenter and Henry Eaton.

A meeting of the Sophomore class was held in Coburn Hall Thursday noon. Arrangements were made for a committee to meet Tuesday evening at 6.15 and nominate officers for the coming year. It was also voted to give the Sophomore Owls charge of printing the class posters.

Girls Start Practice For Various Athletics

The first track practice for the girls started Monday afternoon Oct. 16 with Kate Dennison as coach. Because of lack of time, Miss Huesman will not be able to take over track until the spring.

Plans have begun for basketball and it is hoped that many girls will try out for this sport.

Field hockey is progressing successfully. The new field is completed, but, on account of the weather, the girls have not had many chances to get into active practice.

NOTICE

Professor Teelle is now Chairman of the Committee on Social Affairs and all requests should be sent to him.

Colgate-Colgate is entering upon what may prove to be a new epoch in its history. In the course of the next month or two the university is to have a new president, a new dormitory, and a new gymnasium and a new football coaching system. In its existence of more than a century, the institution has never faced a brighter period than it faces today. The inauguration of Reverend George Barton Cutting, Ph. D., D. D., LL. D., as president of the university, took place in the Colgate Memorial Chapel on Saturday, October 7th at 10 o'clock. Invitation had been sent to several thousand alumni and to college presidents and faculties all over the country, and an elaborate entertainment was put through.

Michigan Agricultural College—A squad of about sixty men is expected to turn out next week for the first basketball practice at Michigan Agricultural College.

music. The most noteworthy literary performance of the session was the reading of the play "Romance" by Miss Grace Sage, of the Leland Powers School, Boston. On Friday evenings were held literary, dramatic, and musical entertainments which were followed by dancing in the gymnasium. Excursions to Castine, Bar Harbor, Mooshead Lake and other resorts were arranged for the week-ends.

Mr. J. W. Taylor of the State Department of Education, fulfilled his duties as lecturer in education by giving a series of addresses to students in this department. These were highly appreciated by all.

The maturity and earnestness of purpose of the great majority of the students brought about a grade of class room work of a very high order.

President Little, who gave a most helpful address to the students in chapel, expressed great interest in this department of the University and has already in mind a number of plans for its future improvement and growth.

CORRESPONDENCE

Oct. 16, 1922

To the Maine Campus,
Gentlemen:

I should appreciate this announcement appearing in the Campus, as some members of the University are not clear as to the Dramatic policy which has lately been agreed upon.

Under the auspices of the Maine Masque and the Dominoes a University play will be undertaken each semester by the Public Speaking Department.

This play will be coached and the production chosen by the Department.

All are eligible, men and women alike. It is understood, however, that the mere appearing in this production does not entitle one to become a member of either of the above societies.

The Masque and the Dominoes will function as usual, and produce plays as hitherto.

Within their own organization each society is supreme, and may, of course, have what rules for membership they deem best.

The joint production will be a campus production only.

Editor of the "Campus"
Dear Sir:

I have noticed a condition at Hannibal Hamlin that I think should be corrected at once and which I feel will be stopped by those responsible when the matter is called to their attention.

I refer to the matter of driving automotive vehicles onto the lawn in front of the hall. Baby motorcycles go there. Big, full-grown motorcycles go there. Baby autos go there. Big, large autos go there and I've seen five ton trucks ramble over our tender grass like a cat looking for grasshoppers. I might say that all this in no way assists the grass causes anything to cling more tenaciously to life, to the contrary, but I won't because you've seen what is left of the grass.

So let's spare what is left of the grass and take our daily exercise by walking twenty-five feet more before entering our Pierce-Arrow.

Yours truly,
John L. Seymour '23

Interesting Chapel Talk Is Given by Miss Scott

"Do your part in maintaining and uplifting the standard of American womanhood." In the name of the American soldier who was in France, Miss Grace Lee Scott of the W. C. T. U. brought that message to the student body in an interesting and instructive talk that she gave in chapel during the last week.

In 1918 when the American boys first went across to take their part in the Great War, Miss Scott was under concert plans in Chicago; nevertheless, she went along so that she might cheer them up with her singing after their days of strenuous fighting.

On many occasions she was well repaid for her sacrifice. One time in particular after singing ballads and old folk songs to a group of boys in a hospital, every one with either a hand or leg gone, she was told that her voice had carried a message from home to them.

After the Armistice was signed, Miss Scott returned to Paris to find that she must give up her singing for a new line of work was laid out for her there in the streets of Paris.

Once again Paris was the playground of all France, and there very soldier spent his three days' leave of absence in the midst of the most demoralizing conditions.

The devastated regions of France had emptied their young womanhood into the streets of Paris at the mercy of the world, and under such circumstances they were dragged down.

Miss Scott realized that here was her great duty. She couldn't leave those boys in such a critically dangerous atmosphere, at a time when their resistance was low after the strain and hardships of war. Thus night after night, she and her companion worker walked the streets to keep the boys clear of the dangerous places of amusement and companions.

The boys thanked her with tears in their eyes for her kindness. "You have brought my mother, sister, and sweetheart to me at one time," said one fellow as he grasped her hand in gratitude.

In her talks with the different fellows Miss Scott learned that they were worried about conditions at home. They dreaded to have such an influence reach America and push her down. They begged her to go back to America and give the people there a realization of what war had done to France so that such a calamity might be averted in the homes they loved so dearly.

"Let us each carry this in mind. We are going to lift up American social life so that all the world will look to America for high ideals. Then and then only will we have carried on our end of the Great Fight."

University of California—A "no smoking" rule for co-eds at the University of California is now in effect. The chairman of the student affairs committee has asked the sorority presidents to see to it that there are no violations to this rule.

Alaskan Agricultural College and School of Mines—A new college has been opened for registration at Fairbanks, Alaska, which is just 70 miles from the Arctic Circle.

The school referred to is the Alaskan Agricultural College and School of Mines, and is the first institution of higher learning to be established in the northern territory. An appropriation of $60,000 was made by the territorial legislature in 1917 for the construction of the first building which has recently been completed. Federal aid will total $50,000 annually.

To date approximately 100 students have matriculated.

Washington State College—The military department reports the largest enrollment in history, with over 700 "rooks" receiving instruction daily. Of these 550 are in the regular infantry companies and 150 in the engineering corps. There are 65 students in the advanced classes.
